ALTERNATIVE INSTRUCTIONAL METHODS - DISTANCE LEARNING

Distance Learning refers to courses offered outside of a traditional classroom setting using a variety of technologies for delivery. Navarro College provides several types of distance learning classes to help fit the needs of our students.

ONLINE (INTERNET) COURSES

Online courses allow students to take courses from virtually anywhere, anytime of the day or night. Students taking online courses must have reliable access to a computer and an internet connection. These courses are NOT self-paced as they are scheduled to run concurrent with on-campus courses during the standard fall, spring, and summer, and mini semesters, and the courses contain daily or weekly assignments and due dates. Students will gain access to their classes through Navarro College's Canvas learning management system.

HYBRID COURSES

Hybrid courses are defined as courses in which a majority (more than 50 percent but less than 85 percent) of the planned instruction occurs when the students and instructor(s) are not in the same place. In hybrid classes, a significant amount of the course learning activity is moved online, which allows for a reduction of time spent in the classroom. Hybrid courses provide course materials online, while at the same time providing interactive time with their professor and classmates.

INTERACTIVE WEB CONFERENCE COURSES

An Interactive Web Conference is a class in which a professor teaches at one location while students in another location receive live, two-way audio and visual instruction via a web conferencing application. The professor and students at the remote location can interact in real time, and each location can hear and see each other.

STATE AUTHORIZATION OF DISTANCE LEARNING PROGRAM

Navarro College is a member of the State Authorization Reciprocity Agreement (SARA); therefore, we are authorized to provide distance learning courses to students whose official residence is located in a U.S. State or Territory which is outside the State of Texas.
