DEVELOPMENTAL STUDIES

The developmental studies program at Navarro College provides basic skills development in the areas of reading, writing, mathematics, and study skills for students who are under-prepared for college-level studies. Students whose scores fall below the minimum standards on the Texas Success Initiative (TSI) placement test (TSIA or TSIA2) are required to enroll and participate in developmental corequisite classes or a non-course-based corequisite activity until competency is achieved. Failure to attend or participate in developmental studies classes will result in the student being dropped from the class. If a student is dropped from one section of a corequisite pairing, the student will be dropped from both sections. Students may enroll in certain courses within their major area of study while simultaneously enrolled in developmental classes. However, a student in basic skills courses will need to reduce the course load in his/her major area or college-level classes since basic skills courses have a large amount of lab time. Students should be aware that their grade-point average on Self Service does not include their developmental class grades. Grades from developmental classes could determine whether a student is placed on academic probation, suspension, or is in good academic standing at the college, for the purposes of financial aid. The purpose of developmental education is for students to score at the Adult Education and Literacy (AEL) level on the TSIA2 Diagnostic test to achieve Non-Algebraic TSI completion in one semester or allow students who score above AEL level to concurrently enroll in credit bearing course work while receiving additional instruction to support their success and allow them to obtain TSI completion in one semester. Students must meet exit criteria objectives prior to receiving an associate degree from Navarro College. Basic skills courses cannot be used in meeting graduation requirements for any degree or certificate. (See Developmental Education Plan under the Student Success Services section) Navarro College offers Developmental Studies Courses for the students whose academic skills in Reading, Writing, and/or Math have been identified as insufficient for college-level work. Students identified in need of these courses will find it necessary to complete these courses in order to achieve success in college-level work.

Developmental Studies courses cannot be used in meeting graduation requirements for any degree or certificate.
